MILLIONS STARVING IN CHINA

If the inhabitants of the famine regions in China can hold out until the end of June, when the growing grain crop will be harvested, they may "get through." But, with all that has been done to relieve their sufferings, their condition is desperate and hunger may drive them to acts that will make the preserving of their lives next to impossible. The funds, which generous Americans have provided were practically exhausted by April 1 in the purchase of grain, all of which has been consumed. A report by the relief agents on the scene says that "leaves, greens and bark are nearly exhausted. Imminent danger that the people will devour growing grain unless helped."

If the crop is not permitted to come to maturity there will be no food for them during the winter and next spring, nor will they have means to put in a crop next year. The coming six weeks is, indeed, the most critical period in the famine; the prospect warrants the fresh appeal that is made by the American Committee for China Relief Fund. This has been designated as "China Famine Week," during which donations to the fund, urgently needed, will be sought. Having helped the Chinese sufferers thus far, Americans will not now let them die. Millions of lives have been saved by previous subscriptions, but unless more money is forthcoming the number of survivors will be greatly lessened.

At best the famine areas will be comparable to the devastated regions of Europe for a long time. In trying to help themselves the famine victims have disposed of everything essential to maintenance of existence in ordinary course. They will have to start life anew. They have razed their houses and sold the timber and sold their farm implements, household utensils and clothing to buy food. Farm animals have been sold or eaten. But all the money that Americans contribute will do for food to relieve the immediate necessity. It is now a question of preserving human lives.

INNOCENTS ABROAD AGAIN

After an utter collapse, covering a period of six years, travel Europe was expected this season to return to conditions of normalcy. The European travel industry had pretty well declined when August, 1914, it is true of course that in the early summer of 1918 we were sending shiploads of travelers from America to Europe, but although these representatives of Pacific Sun were indeed welcome, they were not the kind of travelers to which Europe was now accustomed to open the portals.

This season's arrivals from America are a different sort of party. They are to be more or less "innocents" who will find it very difficult to get to Europe. They are to be "innocents" who will find it very difficult to get to Europe. They are to be "innocents" who will find it very difficult to get to Europe.

There are battlefields, scarcely three years old, which over the battlefield of Waterloo sink into insignificance. The old lady who, it is said with more love for poetry than truth, sits there at Waterloo and for a consideration gives the tourist a piece of leather from the boot of Lord Wellington has now an opportunity to extend her sphere and start a series of chain stores. Small wonder it is that the tourist-to-Europe trade is going to be brisk this coming season.

MELTING POT SAVES HAWAIIANS

It has been generally assumed in recent years that the Hawaiians and other Polynesian peoples were a doomed race, as they numbers have steadily dwindled since the coming of the white man to their islands. The statement of a scientist resident in Honolulu that the Hawaiians are being reinvigorated by the infusion of alien blood is gratifying, therefore. The offspring of these mixed marriages, it is stated, for the most part marry back into the full-blooded Hawaiian strain, thus preserving the Hawaiian blood from being so diluted as to lose its identity.

These people have adopted the white man's dress and it is highly probable that they should be preserved.

WILL SEND TEAM TO AMERICA FOR DAVIS CUP PLAY

(By Associated Press)

TOKIO, May 6.—Japan has challenged for the Davis tennis cup which is now held by the United States and will send a team to America to compete with leading tennis champions of the country and other countries. This will be Japan's first entry in the Davis tournaments.

The decision to enter was made by the Tokio Lawn Tennis club, which includes both Japanese and foreigners, but the challenge is made in the name of Japan and not in the name of the club.

The Japanese team is not yet selected, but it is believed that it will include Japan's three leading players, namely, Kamegata and Kashi, who are now in the United States, and Shimizu, who was the runner-up to Tilden at the Wimbledon tournament last year.

Where there's a will there's a way. In these days of advanced wisdom Solomon would be rated an old fogey.
